WGU Alumni Successes

Recent HR Management Grad Terrance Rosales Shares His Story

“Joining WGU was one of the greatest decisions of my life. I was unsure what my career path would look like, but with a strong mentor in Sandra Willet, amazing instructors with strong backgrounds to pull experiences from, and a versatility to finish classes at a pace I felt comfortable with, I finally feel I know where I belong. With my Bachelors in human resources management completed, I have already enrolled in the fall for my master's in leadership and management. Not only because I want to further my career and knowledge, but because I want to represent WGU in the best way possible as a leader of industry. Thanks to them, I was able to secure a dream job as an HR

Supervisor for QSD, a Supply Chain company dedicated to McDonald's, Starbucks, and Chik-Fil-A across the United States. I will continue to drive forward and spread word of what this university can offer for future students in my new profession. Go Night Owls!"

10 Steps to Unplug and Take Time Off

It's not always easy to let go of work while on vacation. Some of us may even feel guilty for taking time off, but it's important to remember that not taking that much-needed break often leads to complete burnout. Instead of waiting until that point, take a few moments now to learn about the actionable steps you can take to unplug.

Capstone Excellence Awards

Capstone Excellence Award Recipients | Biannual Report

The WGU Excellence Program is proud to recognize the 56 students who received the prestigious Capstone Excellence Award from February to July 2020. These culminating capstone projects must meet strict criteria for excellence, and reflect one or more of the following attributes: ingenuity, mastery, or synergy for the greater good. Capstone Faculty Evaluators nominate deserving capstone projects, followed by a two-step Evaluation Management review process for approving the finalists' work. See additional criteria here.

The Biannual CEA Awards- Recipient List (8-20) shows by college the WGU graduates who received the Capstone Excellence Award for their work. You can also link from the report directly to the Evaluator's nomination statement and archived work in the Capstone Excellence Archive, accessible with your WGU login.

Please join us in celebrating the success of our most recent Capstone Excellence Award recipients as they begin a new season in their careers as distinguished WGU graduates. For questions please email excellenceawards@wgu.edu.
